

ABSTRACT

A handle cover for a golf club includes a hollow cylindrical body fitted around a handle portion of a golf club in a tight condition and an end cap closed up an upper end of the cylindrical body. The cylindrical body has an elastic member to let the cylindrical body provided with comparatively good elasticity to be easily expanded so that a user can fit it around a golf club without using any tool.

10